

RIVERS & FISHERIES TRUSTS OF SCOTLAND
Safeguarding Scotland's Rivers & Lochs

Annual Conference 2010

The Rivers and Fisheries Trusts of Scotland (RAFTS) annual conference will take place on

Wednesday 10th March 2010
The Battleby Institute, Redgorton, nr Perth

Conference Theme:

Agreeing to Disagree:
Dealing with the thorny issues

Fisheries management in Scotland is entering a new and exciting phase with fishery management plans now in place across Scotland and fishery trusts and fishery boards making increasingly important contributions to wider environmental policy improvement and protection objectives.

The conference will look to how a range of issues that may be initially in conflict with fishery or environmental objectives are being considered to seek and achieve practical accommodations and resolutions and where working constructively with others can negotiate and deliver better outcomes. Not all problem issues need to result in full blown conflict and innovative negotiations and mitigations can always be sought and found.

Presentations from member Trusts and invited speakers will consider topics including:

- Working with developers to safeguard environments and secure mitigations
- Current progress and challenges with aquaculture
- Better and agreed management of predators
- Working with other uses and users of the land and water
